The Amazing People of ISC...

A special thank you to the families, students, churches and individuals of the Southwestern School District who have donated funds and food for the Pack-A-Sack (also known as the TWIGS) program. The Loyal Daughters Ministry of St. John's United Church of Christ in Brighton, in conjunction with the Brighton Ministerial Alliance and School District, collects and organizes monthly packing sessions. The staff at the school district distributes the bags weekly to children who are eligible for free and reduced lunch and have signed up for this additional support.

The Southwestern Pack-A-Sack program provides a weekend supply of nutritious food for children when school lunch and breakfast is unavailable on a weekend or school holiday. Each food bag contains 2 breakfasts, 2 lunches, 2 snacks, and a dairy item and 1 can of fruit. All food is nonperishable and provided to children free of charge. It is our hope these resources will support the health, behavior, and achievement of every student that participates.

The support from the community has been tremendous. Recently they had members of the Life Skills Class purchase food and assemble 100 bags as part of their Life Skills learning. There were also members of the local Tiger Scouts group along with other volunteers come and assemble over 400 bags in less than an hour. Donations collected by various classes, the fire department and at local sporting events have also helped keep our supplies well stocked. We are beginning our second year of offering Pack-A-Sack in the school district and the community support has grown tremendously.

If you would like to volunteer or donate, please contact Rev. Laurie Crelly at St. John's United Church of Christ for more information. 618-372-3737.

"Scorpion Brain"

I once read a parable about a holy man who was practicing his morning meditation under a tree whose roots stretched out over the riverbank.

During his meditation, he noticed that the river was rising, and a scorpion caught in the roots was about to drown.

He crawled out on the roots and reached down to free the scorpion, but every time he did so, the scorpion struck back at him, trying to sting him.

A man passing by stopped and said to the holy man,

"Don't you know that's a scorpion, and it's in the nature of a scorpion to want to sting?"

The holy man replied, "That may well be, but it is my nature to save, and I will not let the scorpion's desire to hurt, change my desire to help."

I have been thinking about this parable and how it applies to this time in the life of the Church and to this time in the life of the nation and the world. More than ever before, I am hearing pastors and lay persons lament about the reality that they are experiencing a lack of basic civility and kindness in their congregations. As a whole, most of us can affirm there seems to be a higher level of unrest, intolerance, and even cruelty swirling around us.

What is the reason for this? Well, I think it is simple; it is our primal instinct to fight back. Scientists often explain this with the colloquialism of the "lizard brain." The lizard brain refers to the oldest part of the brain, the brain stem that is responsible for primitive survival instincts such as aggression and fear. When we are responding out of our "lizard brain" (or perhaps as it relates to the story above we could call it our "scorpion brain") our basic instinct is to strike back and try to sting another. If someone lashes out, we lash back. If someone hurts us, we will seek to hurt him or her in return. Thus, things get uncivil and unkind.

Yet, the bigger question is do we have to be ruled by this primal instinct? Well, Jesus didn't think so. Jesus believed we could work out of a higher calling. (Scientists might name this higher calling as working out of our limbic system, which is a higher brain function in which relationships, and emotional bonds are considered.) Jesus believed and taught that we could live at a higher level of response--a more Godly response, which is simply to love first.

If we are to take the teachings of Jesus seriously and seek to live them out, we are making a commitment to change our nature so that it might more fully reflect the nature of God. That commitment is to be loving, compassionate, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love.

Imagine how different our families, our churches, our country, our world would be if we all chose like the holy man in the parable to not allow the "scorpions" around us to change our desire to help or to be more holy, more God like.

Imagine. It would be a challenge, but certainly a challenge worth taking. Let us not allow the "scorpions" of the world to change our nature as Christ followers. May our nature be to save, to be of help, and to live out the love and mercy of God each day. Blessings, Shana

Deadline for UCC Yearbook Statistics Approaches - March 8

Illinois South Conference churches have always had 90+% of the churches turning in their membership, attendance, financial and ministerial support information each year. We're hoping you will be one of those churches to do just that. If you plan to do it online, the drop dead deadline is Wednesday, March 8. After that, online will be locked. It is difficult to know who has done it online unless you send us a report or just a note to say it is done. Atta-girl or Atta-boy for those who have already sent their reports! If you haven't yet, we know you will soon. Thanks so much. Lynnette.

Faith Formation for Clergy and Lay

You are invited to an experiential learning event sponsored by the Faith Formation team of the United Church of Christ on March 29. Discussions about intergenerational ministry abound in our churches today and studies show the importance of positive intergenerational relationships on the faith formation of our children and youth. Yet churches are finding that building these intergenerational relationships is easier said than done. This event, Logos, will introduce you to a program designed to create intergenerational relationships in your church as well as teach your kids Bible study and worship skills.

LOGOS - is a weekly intergenerational experience for young people that creates an arena where all ages, together, can learn about, experience, and practice the art of Christian relationships, critical for developing life-long disciples.

At this Inspiring Model of Ministry you'll participate in an evening of Logos at St. John's United Church of Christ in Chesterfield, MO and then have a chance to reflect on what you experienced, have a chance to ask questions of the Logos' leaders, and ruminate on how you might bring this innovative practice back to your own ministry setting. This event is not primarily designed for clergy. Your church could send children's ministry/youth faith formation staff or volunteers to experience the retreat and report back on the experience.

Cost for the event is $25 per person and dinner is included. A limited number of scholarships are available to help defray travel costs for the event. For more information and to register, click here. If you have other questions please contact me at beckwithi@ucc.org or at 216-736-3875.
