LIMITING BELIEFS

This morning I was listening to the podcast "Happier" with Gretchen Rubin. The episode featured Gretchen (author best known for her book, The Happiness Project) talking to her sister Elizabeth Craft (a movie/television writer and producer) about limiting beliefs. A limiting belief is a belief or thought that is so deeply ingrained in us that it constrains us in some way.

Just by believing them, we do not think, do or say things that they inhibit. A limiting belief is often about ourselves, how we see ourselves, or how we self-identify. Yet, limiting beliefs can also be about other people and the world in general. The key is they LIMIT us from seeing potential, believing something is possible, and trusting there can be more than what we are experiencing right now.

Sometimes it is hard to recognize limiting beliefs. However, if we analyze them and pull the threads of logic about these beliefs, we can begin to see the faulty thinking behind them.

I remember distinctly a time when I became aware of a limiting belief that could limit my effectiveness as a leader. I was serving in my first church, sitting in my first finance meeting. That evening, we were talking about our investments. Suddenly, I felt myself break out in a cold sweat. Words were coming out of people's mouths that I did not understand. Hard words, not like the hard words I had learned, such as Christology, epistemology, hermeneutics, or even infralapsarianism.

The words being used in this meeting were not Hebrew, Greek, or Latin words. They were not words that I had encountered in any of my seminary classes. These were words like preferred stocks, equity funds, asset allocation and index funds. Had I missed these courses? Was I quizzed on them in my orals? As the conversation continued around me, my mind spun out of control. Then the dreaded question came. The only one I was not prepared for, "Pastor, what do you think?" Honestly, I have no idea what I said, but I do remember my deep relief when the meeting was over.

For the next week or so, that meeting was on a repeating loop in my mind, and the occupying thought I had was, "I am never going to understand church finances." THIS was a limiting belief. After a while, I decided to pull on the thread of the logic behind this limiting belief. Was I incapable of learning something new? Was it impossible for me to find someone who could share this knowledge with me? Had I not learned hard words, hard concepts, or done hard things before? The answer always came to NO. I was simply limiting myself.

I began to pray about it. I prayed that God would direct me to someone who might be helpful in my exploration and understanding of these new concepts. As it happened (not by chance, of course), I was at a community meeting and met an interesting woman who was the president of a local bank. In the course of the conversation, I told her about the church finance meeting and how lost I had felt. I asked her if she would be willing, if I would pay her for the sessions, tutoring me on the basic concepts of investments and finances for not-for-profit organizations. She was happy to do so, and we set up a time to meet the next week. We had several sessions together, and it was one of the best investments I made. It taught me two important lessons: 1) Do not limit yourself by thinking you cannot do something. 2) There is always someone who you can learn from and is willing and often eager to share their knowledge, experience, and insight. All you have to do is ask.

Limiting beliefs do not only exist in our personal life, but also exist in the church. How can we identify them? Usually they start or end in the following ways:

- We do...
- We do not...
- We can't...
- We should...

Churches & Pastors

- Freeburg St. Paul's UCC,
Rev. Earl (Johanna) Crecelius,
Jr.

We shouldn't...
Others (they) are....
Others (they) will...
This is how _____ works...
We never...
We have always...

Consider the conversations that you have in fellowship/coffee time, in ministry team meetings, in governing body meetings, in congregational meetings, and in the parking lots of your churches. Can you identify some of the limiting beliefs that are revealed in those conversations? How are they or how are they not serving your church and its ministry well? How do they limit not only the corporate thinking and decision making of the church, but also how, more importantly, do they limit the power of God to act and move in your church?

The interesting thing is that we claim to believe the words and message of Jesus, "with humanity this is impossible, but with God all things are possible (Matthew 19:26)." But do we really believe ALL things are possible with God? Do we live this belief? Or are we held back by our limiting beliefs?

After thirty-seven years of faithful leadership, Reverend Gary Kniepkamp will retire as head pastor of St. John's UCC in Summerfield and St. Jacob UCC at the beginning of July. In celebration of his ministry, a Liturgy of Farewell will be performed during their regular worship service beginning at 10:15 am on July 8 at St. Jacob UCC. An open house will be hosted on the same day from 1:30 pm until 3 pm. All are welcome to attend and celebrate his ministry.

A PLACE FOR COLLABORATIVE MISSION & SERVICE

A generation ago local members of United Church of Christ (UCC) congregations organized mission groups and volunteered personal time to visit patients, serve as candy strippers and witness to God's healing presence at Deaconess Hospital. In April 2018, Deaconess Center for Child Well-Being opened its doors. It is the first building dedicated to the Deaconess mission in nearly twenty years of our 130-year heritage. Today, Deaconess Foundation invites this generation of church leaders to join them in service to the community's children.

Established by Deaconess Foundation, Deaconess Center for Child Well-Being is a community action tank, located at 1000 North Vandeventer Avenue, St. Louis, MO 63113. Its mission is to build power to advance child well-being in the St. Louis region by strengthening alliances for child-friendly public policy, increasing citizen contact with policy makers, positioning youth and organizers to move systems, and engaging faith communities in child advocacy. The Center is home to three child-focused, non-profits and grants free space to efforts shifting systems to serve kids. Partnership between the faith community and child advocates will be critical for Deaconess Center's success.

Last September Hurricanes Maria and Irma presented Puerto Rico with its worst natural disaster on record. The deadly storms caused an estimated death toll of 4,645 persons, $94 billion in damages to homes, businesses and infrastructure, only a fraction of which has been dealt with and/or compensated by the U.S. government.

The hurricanes disrupted water supply, crippled communications systems and littered the island with debris. Eight months later, 20,000 people are still without power.

UCC Disaster Ministries, Week of Compassion/Disciples Volunteering, and Global Ministries are collaborating closely with brothers and sisters in Puerto Rico to aid Global Ministries partners in recovery from the hurricanes and prepare for the coming hurricane season.

Volunteer teams are needed now for work that may include debris removal, cleaning, tarping, sanitation, light carpentry, roofing, and repair work of homes and/or church properties.

INTERFAITH NETWORK ON DRONE WARFARE

The St. Louis Interfaith Conference on Drone Warfare will be held at Eden Theological Seminary in St. Louis on Friday, June 8 from 10 am - 4 pm. Come and discuss these question: Why is the faith community concerned about drone warfare? Are civilians protected in drone warfare? What is the effect of drone warfare on drone operators? What does it mean to say: "Kill one terrorist and create 10 more terrorists?" Presenters include:

Bishop Richard E. Pates, Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Des Moines and former chair of the International Justice and Peace Committee of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops

Matt Hawthorne, Policy Director, National Religious Campaign Against Torture, Washington, DC

Rev. Dr. David Greenhaw, President, Eden Theological Seminary, St. Louis, Missouri

Michael McPhearson, National Executive Director of Veterans for Peace

Maryann Cusimano Love, Professor of Politics, Catholic University, Washington, DC

Two films produced by the Interfaith Network on Drone Warfare for congregations will be screened.

Registration is $20, or $10 for students/seniors. We will break at midday for Dhuhr prayer for those who wish to pray.

For those not observing the Ramadan fast, lunch will be provided.

For more information, please call 207-450-7242 or click here for a flyer. Click here to register. Sponsored by the Interfaith Network on Drone Warfare and Eden Theological Seminary.

Opportunities for Action

When Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. launched a Poor People's Campaign 50 years ago, he did so believing that if people could join together we could form a "new and unsettling force" for justice in our nation. You are invited to be a part of the Poor People's Campaign re-ignited.

The 40 days of action will culminate with a mass rally in Washington, DC on June 23 on the National Mall at 10:00 am between 7th Street and 9th Street for words of inspiration, spirit-filled music and the chance to connect and strategize with advocates from around the country.

The UCC Washington DC office will be hosting a pre-rally gathering for UCC members attending the rally. Click here to register and get updated details.

ORIGINS OF FATHER'S DAY (according to history.com)

The campaign to celebrate the nation's fathers did not meet with the same enthusiasm as Mother's Day -perhaps because, as one florist explained, "fathers haven't the same sentimental appeal that mothers have."

On July 5, 1908, a West Virginia church sponsored the nation's first event explicitly in honor of fathers, a Sunday sermon in memory of the 362 men who had died in the previous December's explosions at the Fairmont Coal Company mines in Monongah, but it was a one-time commemoration and not an annual holiday.

The next year, a Spokane, Washington, woman named Sonora Smart Dodd, one of six children raised by a widower, tried to establish an official equivalent to Mother's Day for male parents. She went to local churches, the YMCA, shopkeepers and government officials to drum up support for her idea, and she was successful: Washington State celebrated the nation's first statewide Father's Day on June 19, 1910.

Slowly, the holiday spread. In 1916, President Wilson honored the day by using telegraph signals to unfurl a flag in Spokane when he pressed a button in Washington, D.C. In 1924, President Calvin Coolidge urged state governments to observe Father's Day. Read more.

Meet Our Summer Staff

Welcome Marcus Vaughan to our 2018 summer staff team! Marcus is returning for his third summer on staff and will be serving as our Waterfront Coordinator. He calls Llanfyllin, a small town in Wales, home but he loves to travel and has made good friends and has "homes" around the world - one of them in Marion, Illinois. In 2012, Rev. John Holst and his family hosted Marcus during his first week-long lifeguard certification class. They developed a strong bond and have stayed connected ever since. Youth development is Marcus' passion. Since last at DuBois Center, he worked for two years at Camp Chief Hector YMCA in collaboration with the Canadian Rockies

Outdoor Learning Centre. During his time there, his responsibilities progressed from canoe out-tripping leader to high ropes course director to outdoor school coordinator. After some time back in Wales, Marcus headed to Melbourne, Australia for a year of travel and work. There he served as a behavioral and welfare officer at a Christian boys college (high school to us Americans) working with students with behavioral challenges. Long-term, Marcus plans to work with youth in the correctional system, helping them to develop strategies and make long-lasting changes in their life situations. In addition to traveling and youth development, Marcus has a passion for soccer. In his late teens, he played professionally and coached youth teams. His family is also very important to him, and he is looking forward to spending quality time with his young niece after returning to Wales.

Marcus is excited to be back at DuBois Center, to see all the familiar faces, make new friends and have another fun and rewarding summer. We are excited for all the experience and energy he brings to our team. Welcome back Marcus!

MEET our SUMMER STAFF

Welcome Jordann Sipe to our 2018 summer staff team! Jordann comes to us from Gordonsville, Virginia. She is a student at Virginia Tech and is double majoring in Dairy Science and Animal & Poultry Science with an emphasis in Livestock & Equine. This summer she will be serving as our Barn Coordinator. Jordann has been riding since she was five years old and is an avid foxhunter! In addition, she is an experienced lifeguard, swim instructor and coach. Numerous horse camps and 4-H camps are also part of her resume. After graduating, Jordann hopes to work with the 4-H program in her state, teaching young people about animal genetics and the importance of genetics in livestock production. She is very excited to be at DuBois Center this summer where her strong faith, love of horses, and passion for helping young people believe in themselves will intersect.

Some of Jordann's favorite things include Sour Patch Kids; southern fried chicken; and anything to do with cows, pigs, and horses. In fact, during the ten days between her last day of classes and heading to camp, she spent time in a dairy working on low stress handling of livestock before heading back to her home barn to help prepare for a rodeo. We are excited Jordann decided to make the trek from Virginia to Illinois for the summer. This was her first big road trip, and she is looking forward to more in the future. Welcome Jordann!

It Takes a Village

This common phrase is often used when referring to raising healthy children or families. It is also a great way to describe caring for a camp like DuBois Center. Without the support provided by scores of volunteers, the ministry of DuBois Center would be greatly diminished. Each year, thousands of hours are donated as volunteers care for campers and facilities, provide
