

I don't know who needs to hear this today, but the picture for March from my Kimothy Joy calendar seems to be something we all need to be reminded of repeatedly. Dear One, take a deep breath and let it out slowly. Try and calm your mind, body, and spirit enough to receive and believe these wise words; trust the process. I know you cannot see the unfolding, and I know too many unknowns are swirling around you to embrace a transformation ahead of you. You might be at the baffling beginning, the messy middle, or inching toward the elusive ending. I know it isn't easy to hear and completely understand at this moment, but still, lean in and listen...trust the process.

For as random as life seems to be, it is not. The One who created and breathed you into being, has not left you and is not done with you. Despite the worst-case scenario "what ifs" soundtrack you have been playing in your mind on repeat, what if you trust the process of the Divine, who is still alive, creating something new within you?

What if you would stop fighting against the things you cannot control, letting go even in the darkness, and choosing the brave act of trust? While it will undoubtedly look different on the other side, what if it is more beautiful than you could have imagined? Imagine what could happen if you trust the process.

Blessings,
 Rev. Shana Johnson

The Justice and Mission Committee of ISC and the Hunger Action Team of ISC asks you to share the ways (and photos!) of how you are helping to address hunger in your communities.

St. Paul UCC in Belleville collected over 300lbs of food during the Souper Bowl of Caring in February. Congregants voted with their non-perishable food items. According to the collection (as well as the final score of the game), Kansas City won! Ultimately, the church knows the people of Belleville are the winners when we and our area congregations initiate food collections. Photos left.

Rural Ministry Conference-The Rural Ministry Conference will be held this year on April 16 -18 in Dubuque, Iowa. The theme for this ecumenical conference is "Flourishing: Land, People and Communities." The Bible tells us that God is a God of abundance, but it is hard to ignore society's message of scarcity. We will be joined by delegates from the International Rural Churches Association to look at what flourishing means in our own and global contexts. For more information, click here. This year we are joined by international delegates from the International Rural Churches Association, bringing an international perspective to the discussion.
