

Doing a New Thing

Over the weekend, FaceBook posts of many pastors included sharing an article that a Presbyterian pastor wrote about his decision to leave his church and the parish ministry altogether. I read the article, watched this pastor's last sermon, and read the multitude of responses in the comments section of the threads to these posts. Yet, I didn't want to add to the comments, which seemed to be in two camps of thought. The comments appeared to either confirm the pastor's experience or shame the pastor for sharing his frustrations and pain.

The discussion itself is not new. In the last couple of years, there has been an ongoing conversation about the painful realities of the church being a shrinking organization whose leaders (both pastoral and lay) struggle under the crushing demands of an anxious system. The truth is we are all afraid.

We are afraid that people have not returned to the pews, activities, or leadership in the ways that we hope they would. We are afraid that our financial resources are dwindling. We are afraid that we do not have enough, that we are not enough, that there is not enough.

I have been there. And I can find myself there at any given moment when I allow the swimming thoughts of fear, doubt, uncertainty, and discouragement to flood my mind. The truth is the ministry I love in this Conference looks and feels different than it did even a couple of years ago.

In the dark nights of my soul, I worry about the sustainability of our Conference as I see the OCWM (our main revenue stream) dollars from our churches shrinking. In return, the resources to carry out the ministry of the Conference are shrinking, with fewer people to do more work.

I worry about the sustainability of our DuBois Center as, while I do see donations coming in for the

People with Life Concerns

-Keep the mother of Pastor Norma Patterson in your prayers as she struggles with health issues. Pastor Norma Patterson is the Pastor and Teacher for East St. Louis Good Shepherd of Faith and has served on several teams for ISC. Cards may be sent to Norma at 5310 DePaul Drive, PO Box 4235, Fairview Heights, IL 62008.

-Please hold Rev. Jim & Lelynna Langdoc in your prayers as Lelynna declines with her battle with memory loss. Good news...Jim reported that he is still in remission. Cards can be sent to them at 16640 Cagan Orchard #122, Clermont, FL 34714.

buildings and the property, I do not see gifts given to invest in the operating costs or the people needed to carry out the mission.

-Pray for the churches and individuals dealing with storm and fire damage.

I have lost more sleep worrying over these things than I care to share. But then I remember an essential part of the equation in my worrying and fretting that I have not factored in. I have not factored in what I cannot see or know.

I cannot see what God has in mind for us. I cannot understand how the Spirit of God is moving in the background to do a new thing. I cannot imagine or comprehend what is being refashioned or reimagined so that something stronger can emerge.

Yet, I know I am not alone. And I also know this is a familiar storyline. The Bible is full of stories of the people of God lacking the faith and imagination to get out of their way to see, comprehend, and experience that it isn't up to us. It is up to God what happens next.

And while we are like the Hebrew people after leaving Egypt--wandering around in the wildness, groaning and complaining about how we were better off before, God is moving, making a way, leading us (if we choose to follow) to a new promised land. Yes, we will find ourselves in a place where we have never been before, but we will not be alone.

We will not be left to our own devices. For the God who has brought us thus far has not left us and will not leave us. God IS still moving, creating, and speaking to us. God is doing a new thing among us. We just need to trust, listen, and believe.

Companionship Workshops - Companionship is a program that trains people to respond compassionately when they encounter folks dealing with mental health challenges. Its central elements are five spiritual practices which promote a relationship responding to isolation and suffering and supportive of healing and recovery. It is administered by Pathways to Promise, an interfaith cooperative seeking to integrate mental health, faith, and culture. You can find out more about the program at pathways2promise.org/companionship. As a WISE (Welcoming, Inclusive, Supportive, and Engaged with people with mental health challenges) Conference, we are planning to conduct the Companionship Workshop at three different locations in the upcoming months for any interested members and friends in our congregations. The training lasts between three and four hours (depending on how many people participate). There is a $20 fee that covers the cost of workbooks for the participants.

The scheduled workshops are as follows:

Saturday, November 4, 1:00 - 5:00 pm, at St. John UCC Midway (Moro).

Saturday, November 18, 1:00 - 5:00 pm, at Church of The Good Shepherd UCC in Carbondale.
